~ While Supplies Last ~

Consider this:

If you have a job that calls for 5/8" sheetrock that doesn't require a fire rating of more than 30 minutes (i.e. interior office walls) you might want to consider using USG's Firecode30. It is an ultralight type product that is 30% lighter than regular 5/8" Firecode board but at the same price. While we don't stock the Firecode 30, we can bring it in with any of our loads-usually with just a couple days notice.

New inventory items:

- Marshalltown EIFS finishing trowel (Cavo's)
- Channellock 16' and 30' tape measures (Cavo's & Ilion)
- Paslode lithium ion replacement battery (Ilion)
- GP solid soffit-brown (Ilion)

Commodities update:

- It's that time of year to start thinking about the annual gypsum price increase which will occur on January 1, 2015. Some manufacturers have already announced a 20% increase. Although USG, our main gypsum vendor has not yet made any official announcement, we wouldn't be surprised if it was less than 20%.
- USG - did put out an increase letter for gypsum finish products (joint compound, etc.) and plasters of 5% effective October 6.
- Essroc our bagged portland and masonry cements vendor, will increase their product on January 1, 2015 by $.50/bg and $.40/bg respectively.
- ABC and Fabral, one of our metal roofing/siding vendors, have increased pricing by 5%
- Panel products: OSB, while still at low prices and has been for over a year, has shown some signs of movement upward, although it is not substantial. SYP plywood continues to be extremely expensive! With dealer and wholesaler inventories very low, the mills are in the driver's seat for now.
- Dimension Lumber: Eastern/Western spruce and inland/white fir markets are showing signs of falling, nothing drastic and possibly only short term, but falling nonetheless.

Words Worth Reading:

Thank you Florida, Kentucky, and Missouri, which are the first States that will require drug testing when applying for welfare. Some people are crying and calling this unconstitutional. How is this unconstitutional???? It's OK to drug test people who work for their money, but not for those who don't?... Re-post this if you'd like to see this done in all 50 states. If you can afford to buy drugs and extra illegal things then you can afford your own groceries.

Hardware Humor (true story from one of our customers):

This customer was out of town working and bought a new hammer at a yard near his job. When he started hammering there was a strange pinging sound, so he brought it back to the sales counter where he bought it and told the two people there "my hammer is ringing". The sales people looked at one another, then back at the customer and one of them said "Well, you'd better answer it!"
