Commodities Update:

- Dimension lumber: SPF has seen its numbers creep up, with slow grinding increases but over the long term these increases are starting to be more noticeable. Prices are not racing up, but are on firm ground.
- SYP (treated) is seeing more substantial increases each week- not the $100-150 increases of earlier this year, but $30-50 is not uncommon. Timbers (4X4, 6X6) and decking are particularly strong.
- Panel products: SYP plywood and OSB remain in a slightly upward direction. Seems to be slowly and steadily increasing.
- On the roofing topic, we seem to be able to keep up with decent inventory levels on the six or so shingle colors offered by GAF. Ice & water shield has been critically short in supply. We're seeing the GACO roof coatings increasing in price by roughly 30%.
- Gypsum prices, after a $20-25/MSF increase early last month has been backed off to only $10-15/MSF for now. Some types of commercial product is very tough to source. Anything with Glass-Mat is almost impossible to get. Shaft wall liner seems to be out two months from orders.
- All insulation products, fiberglass, rockwool and rigid board, is still mostly a waiting game to get the products we've ordered.
- Lehigh Hanson will raise prices on bagged Portland cement and masonry cements by .50/bg and $.25/bg respectively on January 1, 2022.
- Moisture Shield is offering a cash rebate for any first time contractors/ pro installers of $100 per $1,000 spent on Moisture Shield products up to $500.00 max for product purchased from 1/1/21-12/31/21. Rebate submittal must be post marked by 12/31/21. Call our office if we can help with your rebate request.

Quote to Think About:

Every time we feel satisfied with what we have, we can be counted as rich, however little we may actually possess.

Alain De Botton

New Inventory Items:

Trimaco reusable painter's coveralls (Med, L, XL) and painter's head protection.

Gorilla anti-slip tread tape 2"x10' roll.

Words Worth Reading:

Thoughts While Walking the Dog

Do our stories boil down to the snapshots we remember, the anecdotes we tell over and over and maybe write down? And then when these lines are long lost, when our great grandchildren die, is that when we are truly gone? Who tells stories about their great great grandparents? And if they do, are they true?

I don't believe this is all we are, unread pages on a crumbling book. I believe we will be united with our forebearers in the next life, a joyous and natural homecoming. And I believe that we are more than we remember, that our legacies are larger than our language, deeper and more subtle than we can imagine.

I wonder, for example, if I walk like a family member from the motherland, or whistle like someone generations ago. I like to think that amidst the mistakes and failed attempts, the exhausted patience and angry words, that the million ways I have loved my sons, most of which they'll never know, will soak deeply into their lives and perhaps bubble up like a spring in generations I will never meet.

And I wonder if someone a long time ago, whose gait strangely resembled my own, walked alone one quiet early summer night, his dog by his side, and imagined me doing the same.

Phil Cavo

Brain Builder: See if you can figure it out!

Can you rearrange the letter in "new door" to make one word?
