Commodities Update:

- Panels: OSB remains a real value (compared to most of the last 2 years) and SYP plywood is relatively cheap, again compared to recent history. The hurricane expected in the south, as of this writing, may throw that low price out the window though!
- Dimension lumber: as with panels, dimension lumber is at a low point with only a few exceptions with the SPF and SYP species.
- USG Interiors ceiling tile is expected to increase 10% on 10/10/22.
- Polyiso rigid insulation (High R sheathing) may see a 10/23 increase of 8%.
- In general, as each month passes, the supply chain problems we've been experiencing seem to be falling closer to normal. We've still got some "problem child products" but hasn't that always been the case?

Words Worth Reading:

If Everyone Cared

In June 1987, former baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth spoke during my son Skip's graduation ceremonies at Notre Dame. The most memorable part of his speech came when he said we could accomplish anything in this world, solve any problem, if just enough people cared. I could not agree more. I have always felt that every football team I coached would be outstanding if only enough people on the team genuinely cared about our success. When you care passionately about anything, it gives you a sense of purpose. You won't let anything deter you from achieving your dream. This is true in virtually every area of your life.

Winning Every Day

(former football coach)

Brain Builder: See if you can figure it out!

You may know that the size of Leonardo DaVinci's painting of the Mona Lisa is quite small (1'9"X2'6"). What is the size of another of his famous works. The Last Supper?

Hardware Humor: Close to Home

"Mr. Cummings? This is Frank Dunham in Production. ... We've got some problems. Machine No. 5 has jammed, several of the larger spools have gone off track, the generator's blown, and, well, everything seems to be you-know-what."
