Commodities Update:

- Panels: OSB, while still at reasonable price levels, is reported to have tight supply and is expected to run up over the next 3-4 weeks. SYP plywood has been slowly and steadily increasing. Market demand from the hurricanes has not yet been realized.
- Dimension lumber: Eastern SPF and Euro spruce is said to be tightening up and from our last few loads ordered, is increasing in price noticeably, especially 2x6, 2x8 and 2x10. Some traders feel prices will continue to trade up well into 2025. SYP dimension (and PT) is slowing up increases and not giving much back in price reductions, except decking, which has seen some decreases. Timbers have been flat to up slightly.
- Gypsum: USG has deferred their drywall price increase scheduled for October 14. No further information has been given as to their future price plans.
- Steel stud manufacturers have announced plans to increase prices effective November 4. No percentage has yet been announced.

Helpful hint:

*The difference between All Purpose Joint Compound and Plus 3 Compound is Plus 3 weighs 25% less, is easier to sand and shrinks less. Midweight Compound falls between All Purpose and Plus 3 in weight, sandability and shrink.

*Ever wonder the coverage of compound in drywall finishing? You could expect to need one 4.5 gallon pail for every 500 square feet of board you are finishing.

Hardware Humor:

An unusual protest took place outside
Walter's Hardware store today.
