Commodities Update:

- Dimension lumber: Well, for all the talk and bravado from on high and for all the different tariff rates and implementation dates, scheduled and then rescheduled, it seems we're back to where we were before all this started. The market on SPF lumber has not escalated greatly (some increases though) to this point. We are expecting an increase in August due to additional countervailing duties for lumber coming from Canada. We've seen trucking become more of an issue with late deliveries being the norm and there are some availability problems with some species and dimensions (especially Euro). PT lumber (SYP) had initially risen in response to the SPF increases of the last few months, but most dealers have bought in on their Spring needs and will maintain pricing for now.
- Panels: SYP plywood has slipped slightly the last few weeks but not much more is expected. OSB has been trading flat so not much price movement is anticipated there either.
- Steel products: The anticipated steel stud increase has been officially announced- 10% on 5/1. This is after the 10% increases in March and April! Rebar and mesh pricing is up from the beginning of the year, but not as dramatically as it could have been. USG Interiors announced a 15% increase in ceiling grid for 4/14 and we have adjusted our retails, keeping the increase as minimal as we could.
- Masonry products: Our supplier has notified us of a 3% increase in concrete blocks effective 5/1. This is their typical annual increase and we'll raise our retails some time around mid-month.
- Insulation products: Rockwool has announced an 8-16% increase effective 7/7/25. Many polyiso (Hi-R sheathing) foil faced foam sheathing manufacturers have either increased or will increase this month- around 5%.

Quote to think about:

"If you have faith-
Great things can happen.
Miracles can come true.
The impossible can be possible."

Words Worth Reading:

Spoken by John Wooden- the legendary college basketball coach

"I never prayed for victory; never asked God to let our team win the national championship (his teams won 10 NCAA national championships); never offered up a prayer that UCLA would set some record or win a particular game.

To my way of thinking, God has more important things on his mind. Whatever level of competency we reach is up to us- only us.

It's like the story of the Englishman who was walking down a cobblestone path when he came upon a small cottage with a beautiful garden next to it.

The Englishman paused in admiration and said to the gardener who was down on his hands and knees pulling weeds, "Sir, what a beautiful garden God has blessed you with." The gardener replied, "You should have seen it when God was taking care of it by himself!"

Whatever gifts the Good Lord may have blessed us with, we are the ones who must get down on our hands and knees and do the work. It's up to us to make the garden beautiful."

From The Essential Wooden by John Wooden and Steve Jamison

Hardware Humor:

"It's going to be all right, sir. Just slow down and tell me how long you've been lost."
